Dorchester Girl, 16, on Vote List

BULLETIN
Captain James T. Sheehan of Dorchester police station today charged that the name of Miss Charlotte Regan, 16, was falsely listed on the police vote list, and that someone had planned to vote in her name next Tuesday. The list was her age. She and her father, James J. Regan, were not aware that her name had been listed, Captain Sheehan said.

In the first general assignment of police in the "hot push" against "spoek" voters, Superintendent Edward W. Fallon today ordered 400 men to report for street duty in polling places in eight sections of the city.

While the assignments were made in Charlestown, the police headquarters, in the eastern police precinct, it was issued a special force of men to look for "spoek" voters in the city.

The girl, who is 16, was part of a mobilization of the whole police department, 24-hour watch on election day it was organized.

"SPOOKS" IN STORES
One of the most common "spoek" voters in the city today was in the stores. Investigation uncovered evidence that "spoek" voters had been listed from stores in several sections of the city.

Ten new detectives ordered to report on their findings in the stores in Charlestown, and in the city, to the police department.

THE WELL GROOMED MAN

A New Series For Men—By ANN MARSTERS

No. 2—Morton Downey's 28-Day Diet

Additional Menus Show
You How to Reduce
Bulging Waistline

In the past few years men, as a matter of good business and in keeping with the modern trend, have become increasingly more careful of their personal appearance.

Thus, American men are now considered, as a whole, the best dressed in the world. But they are going even farther, attending their hair dress, their facial appearance and, yes, their figures.

Ann Marsters, feature writer, has been studying the subject and in this new series she'll talk about men's grooming, the sort of clothes short and tall men should avoid, the sort of haircuts that are the vogue, the right haberdashery and also the physical appearance of men.

Morton Downey, the famous singing star, now at the Keith Boston theater, amazed his friends when he returned from England last week thirty-one pounds lighter than when he sailed away last spring. The diet with which Mr. Downey accomplished this was given by the Miss Marsters and will comprise the first few stories of the series. This is the second story.

By ANN MARSTERS

Gentlemen, how is your waistline?
We realize that that's a touchy subject to many of you—what is a diet? why were we devised to talk about it? And please remember that whatever we say is all for your own good.

It was Morton Downey, really, who inspired us to write this new series. Downey, with his new, slim waistline and his marvelous 28-day diet.

He brought them both back from England with him—and now, during his engagement this week at the RKO Boston theater, you may see for yourself how miraculously his appearance has improved. Even his voice sounds more positively younger than ever before.

Yesterday, we gave you the first two days' menus in the 28-day diet, and today we'll give you the next three days' menus. Downey told us he has tried other diets with very great expense and hardly any results.

"It cost me $20 for one of them," he said, "and $10 for another. But this is the first diet I ever came across that really worked. The first week I lost 7 pounds, and in a month, I lost 31 pounds."

I suppose this diet was made for men like you, who are not too big, and who appreciate the fact that they are playing it safe for their health. He got it from an English doctor, and one of the most things about it is the fact that you don't have to have a menu printed on them."

"The card for each of the 28 days. I carried them around in my pocket and except for an occasional ice cream sphere, I followed the menus dish for dish."

Downey said he had never been so healthy as he is now. The diet was made for men like you, who are not too big, and who appreciate the fact that they are playing it safe for their health.

THIRD DAY
Breakfast: Orange, grape fruit or grape juice. Coffee with milk.
Luncheon: Ripe olives, Fresh vegetable soup. Lean fillet steak. Six medium sized grilled mushrooms. Fresh bread—baked. One large salad onion—baked.

Dinner: Spinach or green vegetables in season. Fresh fruit salad with whipped cream—unsweetened.

FOURTH DAY
Breakfast: Two slices of toast. Two slices crisply grilled bacon. Black coffee.
Luncheon: Soup—fresh pea.

Navy Is Blamed In '33 Crash

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 28 (AP)—In a sensational decision, the United States Circuit Court charged the navy with "gross negligence, alteration of log entries and other serious violations" in the famous cruiser Chicago collision case.

When by Circuit Judge William Denham, the decision struck a crushing blow at the government's claim that the Chicago was blameless in the tragic collision with the motorship Silverstein off the California coast October 24, 1933.

Two sailors, officers and a crew were killed in the crash, which smashed the bow of the merchant ship and cut the hull in two.

Roosevelt Aims At Increase in Buying Power

Seeks Better Living Standard on Eve of Budget Parley

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Oct. 29.—The president of the United States today announced that he would increase the federal income tax on the eve of his budget parley with the Senate.

He indicated that would not be a drastic move, but would be a step toward increasing the buying power of the population, that about three in four of the people would be affected.

The President's announcement came at a time when the government is struggling to balance its budget and to reduce the national debt.

He said that the increase would be a "small" one, but it would be a step in the right direction.

Mayoralty Darby Contractors' Need

So Says the Senator as He Finds Them in an Election Huddle

THE SENATOR:

To look at The Senator when he comes in it is very evident that The Senator is considerably sad, and in fact he is so sad that he leans against the mahogany and he stands there almost a full 10 seconds by anyone's tick-tock before he mumbles a request for something in the way of a brace.

"Well, I wish to say, Senator," cracks Timmie, "that I feel like a gloomer in my time, but I never see a sadder looking gloomer than I gaze upon at this instance. Do you wish to go into the crying room, Senator?" asks Timmie politely.

Not ordinary were Timmie's lays down a mark like this at The Senator. He never himself was open, but for all the comeback The Senator makes he might as well be dreaming in a glib on The Road and that far out of town. But finally The Senator says a thoughtful word or two and then he is talking to himself.

"Pity the poor contractors!"

Well, this seems to wake The Senator up and he looks another way and he does not seem so interested.

"No, Timmie," he says, "I did not gloom. For myself personally but I just now have a contractor's friend and we get to talking on this and that and one thing and another and the same sets me pondering on the difference between the present and the dead dead days."

Dear, Dear, Such a Muddle

Naturally this is the situation of just in about 10 minutes to Timmie, so he does not just sit off with a reply. But he looks at Timmie and he looks at the contractors in the room.

"Yes, Timmie, the poor contractors certainly find themselves in no little of a hot spot in this mayoralty fight, and it is such a muddle as they never find themselves in before when dealing to lay a little something on the line in the interest of one and all."

With this light breaks into Timmie and he says:

"You mean the contractors do not know how to pick from what they see in the morning live, Senator?"

"None other, Timmie, none other," agrees The Senator, placing his hand skimmer on his hip. "Here are the poor contractors, practically eight hours away from the polls and they still can't pick the winner. It is never this in the old days, Timmie, when a contractor laid by his time has his folding money all soiled and delivered and is able to sit around home in his socks and be certain that he doesn't make the wrong jump."

So here The Senator studies the lead-crowded room and he looks at his glass and then he comes back to his.

"I remember the days when the contracting boys long before this time in the campaign, got quietly voting around and about with the same idea, picking up a thing or two and a suggestion there and a bit of inside trading somewhere else. And then, Timmie, all they got to do is pick the sure thing and go to the bank."

Oracle Boys Gassed and Gagged

"But in this campaign they do not pick up any information from the oracle boys," suggests Timmie, sneezing The Senator's brace.

"This year, Timmie," says The Senator, "the oracle boys stop trading altogether and this is a very terrible situation indeed for the contracting boys who have much to think of in the way of business for the next four years."

"And this year, you say, the contractors tell the very truth and tell things, Senator?" asks Timmie.

"It goes all the way down the line, Timmie, even to the ladies that peddle garbous and white hosiery."

The Senator again says deep thought again at this point while he sips Timmie's sneezing, and his answering must be quite somewhat in the way of a reply because The Senator brightens again and he says:

"But I figure out a solution for the contractors, say now, Timmie, and let's put a mental sign I probably can be argued into selling this idea to the problem boys."

Yes, says Timmie The Senator takes up with an idea it is nothing to be nervous at on Timmie points a finger for himself and another for The Senator and he leans over to listen the better word. The Senator says:

Half a Loaf Better Than None

"The only way out of this for the contracting boys, Timmie—and you do not breathe it to a soul," says The Senator, "is for them all to get together, pitch the darby into a pool, cut it even ways and try and sell it out private. Then one of the boys probably wins and the pool gets the business for the next four years."

"But the contracting lads in this pool have to split the business, Senator, and is this not considerably against the grain of some of the lads?" queried Timmie.

"Well, Timmie, comes back The Senator, "as they say on some of the WPA projects in the past, 'Half a loaf is better than none at all.' And if you do not get allowed two spoons of sugar in your coffee, Timmie, do you not accept one instead?"

"Senator, I do not take sugar in my coffee at all," says Timmie, playing dumb. "I wish in my figure, too, close."

This is too much for The Senator, so he looks off the roof of his braver and he claps on his skimmer and he goes out.

Oath as Judges Given Henchey, Eisenstadt

Council Approves Weborn, Roxbury, Justices

The governor's council today unanimously approved the appointment of William A. Henchey and Joseph H. Eisenstadt as judges of the Superior Court.

Henchey and Eisenstadt were sworn in at the state house today after the council had approved their appointments.

Congressmen Bar Foreign Ties, Press Neutral Policy

Survey Shows Solons Advocate Ban on Entanglements

Congress, through a cross-section of its members, shows a strong and prevalent sentiment that the United States adhere to the foreign policy laid down by George Washington and followed by every other President up to Woodrow Wilson.

Congress demands that the United States keep out of foreign entanglements, make no treaties which will lead to such entanglements and avoid diplomatic or other relations requiring conference to explain.

Talk of war swept the country and the world after the "quarantine speech" of President Roosevelt at Chicago. Roosevelt's alliance with the League of Nations is a statement that the United States would cooperate with foreign nations.

The House, British-American, seeking the retention of members of Congress, who after all, determine questions of foreign relations, with a recent question mark to Washington, who are old and experienced, known to the people of the United States.

BACK OF POLICY

The first question was: "Do you think the United States should abide by its historical policy and keep free from League of Nations and other new conditions make new policies necessary?"

The second question was: "Do you think the United States should keep out of foreign entanglements, make no treaties which will lead to such entanglements and avoid diplomatic or other relations requiring conference to explain?"

The third question was: "Do you think the United States should keep out of foreign entanglements, make no treaties which will lead to such entanglements and avoid diplomatic or other relations requiring conference to explain?"

The fourth question was: "Do you think the United States should keep out of foreign entanglements, make no treaties which will lead to such entanglements and avoid diplomatic or other relations requiring conference to explain?"

FOUR LEAGUE LINK

The fifth question was: "Do you think the United States should keep out of foreign entanglements, make no treaties which will lead to such entanglements and avoid diplomatic or other relations requiring conference to explain?"

The sixth question was: "Do you think the United States should keep out of foreign entanglements, make no treaties which will lead to such entanglements and avoid diplomatic or other relations requiring conference to explain?"

The seventh question was: "Do you think the United States should keep out of foreign entanglements, make no treaties which will lead to such entanglements and avoid diplomatic or other relations requiring conference to explain?"

The eighth question was: "Do you think the United States should keep out of foreign entanglements, make no treaties which will lead to such entanglements and avoid diplomatic or other relations requiring conference to explain?"

The ninth question was: "Do you think the United States should keep out of foreign entanglements, make no treaties which will lead to such entanglements and avoid diplomatic or other relations requiring conference to explain?"

The tenth question was: "Do you think the United States should keep out of foreign entanglements, make no treaties which will lead to such entanglements and avoid diplomatic or other relations requiring conference to explain?"

The eleventh question was: "Do you think the United States should keep out of foreign entanglements, make no treaties which will lead to such entanglements and avoid diplomatic or other relations requiring conference to explain?"

The eighteenth question was: "Do you think the United States should keep out of foreign entanglements, make no treaties which will lead to such entanglements and avoid diplomatic or other relations requiring conference to explain?"

SHOULD U. S. CHANGE ITS FOREIGN POLICY?

Subsequent to President Roosevelt's Chicago speech, advocating a "quarantine" of warlike nations, the Boston Evening American asked Senators and Representatives, by telegraph to answer the following seven questions:

1-Do you think United States should abide by its historical policy and keep free from League of Nations and other new conditions make new policies necessary?

2-Do you think United States should keep out of foreign entanglements, make no treaties which will lead to such entanglements and avoid diplomatic or other relations requiring conference to explain?

Nazi Faces Red Over Honor to Heroic Jews

Hitler Troopers Salute As American Lays Wreath on Tomb

BERLIN, Oct. 28 (UPI)—German military officials were a little red-faced today over a "comrade of arms" in which an American Legionnaire from New York's Bronx honored Germany's Jewish war dead while the Jewish Nation gave the party salute.

The American war veteran who played the major role in the establishment of the American Legion—was I. J. Guggenheim.

He succeeded in decorating the cemetery of Jewish war dead in the East with a wreath, one ribbon of which was dedicated to the Jewish war dead.

GIVEN HONOR GUARD

Before things got so serious, he went to the cemetery and laid the wreath. He was given an escort of four Reichwehr troopers and a company of German soldiers as well as permission to lay the wreath on the tomb.

Those hundred spectators were on hand to witness the event and all lined their arms to the Nazi salute as the wreath was put to rest.

But later two policemen arrived at Guggenheim's home. They requested that he accompany them to a police station.

GRILLED AND FRIED

There, for three hours he was grilled by Nazi authorities who demanded to know how he had obtained a permit to enter Germany.

He was released after a long wait. The authorities in the Jewish war cemetery remained unimpressed by the American Legionnaire's gesture.

They recently laid the wreath on the tomb of the Jewish war dead.

Hitler Troopers Salute As American Lays Wreath on Tomb

BERLIN, Oct. 28 (UPI)—German military officials were a little red-faced today over a "comrade of arms" in which an American Legionnaire from New York's Bronx honored Germany's Jewish war dead while the Jewish Nation gave the party salute.

The American war veteran who played the major role in the establishment of the American Legion—was I. J. Guggenheim.

He succeeded in decorating the cemetery of Jewish war dead in the East with a wreath, one ribbon of which was dedicated to the Jewish war dead.

GIVEN HONOR GUARD

Before things got so serious, he went to the cemetery and laid the wreath. He was given an escort of four Reichwehr troopers and a company of German soldiers as well as permission to lay the wreath on the tomb.

Those hundred spectators were on hand to witness the event and all lined their arms to the Nazi salute as the wreath was put to rest.

But later two policemen arrived at Guggenheim's home. They requested that he accompany them to a police station.

Nazis Reject Belgian Bid to 9-Power Parley

BERLIN, Oct. 28 (UPI)—Germany today rejected Belgium's invitation to attend the Brussels 9-power conference on the Sino-Japanese war.

Official announcement of the German government's decision to turn the conference into a "comrade of arms" in which an American Legionnaire from New York's Bronx honored Germany's Jewish war dead while the Jewish Nation gave the party salute.

Eden Busy, Europe Dizzy

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

What's become of handsome Anthony Eden who dashed around Europe bringing disaster out of chaos?

The Eden Pand of peace is to make "em fight without declaring war. The overt act is now invert. The world is upside down.

Remember then Anthony past sanctions on Italy, lifted the ban on Ethiopia, talked in the sign language with Hitler, while Hitler scrambled the Rhine and Mussolini grabbed the Mediterranean? Late man, you had a busy day.

American Cooking Expert Talks to Capacity Crowd

The large audience that filled the Boston Convention hall in Market street yesterday afternoon for the demonstration of the Martha Lee cooking school, conducted by the Boston Evening American.

With Halloween so near, Mrs. Lee devoted the greater part of her meeting to most preparations for the autumnal night.

Since all those in the audience, many experts and others, had to make their own selections, Mrs. Lee demonstrated a few fairly and gave additional to show how to make the most of the season.

The demonstration was held in the kitchen of the Boston Convention hall, and the audience was seated in the hall.

'Why I Should Be Elected'—Santuosso 'Free Agent'

Mayoral Candidate
Pledges No Ties
If Chosen

This is the third of five articles on 'Why I Should Be Elected' written especially for the Boston Evening American by the leading mayoralty candidates. Mr. Tobin's article appeared Wednesday and Mr. Curley's yesterday. Mr. Santuosso gives his views today. Mr. Nichols will be printed Saturday and Mr. Foley's on Monday, in the order of the ballot draw.

By ALFRED SANTUOSSO

The mayor of Boston must not only be honest, but he must enter city hall without obligations to the politicians and cronies. He must be a free agent.

When I assume the office of mayor, I will spend a lifetime in the city hall, and I will be a free agent. I will not be a politician, and I will not be a crony. I will be a free agent.

I will not be a politician, and I will not be a crony. I will be a free agent.

I will not be a politician, and I will not be a crony. I will be a free agent.

I will not be a politician, and I will not be a crony. I will be a free agent.

I will not be a politician, and I will not be a crony. I will be a free agent.

HUMANITARIAN URGED

Soaring Costs Boost Prices Of Papers

Publishers Urged To Protest Jump In Newsprint

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (AP)—Prediction that many newspapers may be forced to raise their circulation rates because of fast rising newsprint and other production costs, was today made by W. G. Chandler, publisher of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Chandler's article has been published in the association's monthly publication, "The Newspaper," and is being widely distributed to members of the association.

Chandler's article is a warning to newspaper publishers to take prompt action to protest the newsprint price advance.

He says that the newsprint price advance is the most serious threat to the financial stability of the newspaper industry since the war.

Chandler says that the newsprint price advance is the result of a combination of factors, including the shortage of newsprint, the increase in the cost of labor, and the increase in the cost of fuel.

He says that the newsprint price advance is a direct result of the shortage of newsprint, which is caused by the increase in the demand for newsprint by other industries.

The Newton home destroyed by an explosion today, was badly shaken by the impact. Maria (Mrs.) Anne and her sister, Caroline, were badly frightened and were found in the ruins of the home. The father, Antonio, was struck by flying glass from a window of the kitchen.

The explosion, which occurred at about 10:30 a.m. today, was the result of a bomb thrown by a person whose identity has not yet been determined. The bomb was thrown from a distance of about 100 yards from the home.

The explosion caused severe damage to the home, which is a two-story brick building. The roof and walls were partially collapsed, and the interior was completely destroyed. The family, consisting of Antonio, Maria, and Caroline, were all injured by the explosion.

Antonio, who is 45 years old, was struck by flying glass from a window of the kitchen. He was badly injured and is now in the hospital. Maria, who is 35 years old, and Caroline, who is 10 years old, were also injured by the explosion. They are both in the hospital.

The Brighter Side Bring Back Apes From Borneo

By DAMON RUNYON

Damon Runyon

Have been striving toward perfect administration of government affairs for upwards of 20 years, which means a long time. We have just made a remarkable discovery. It appears that at no time in something over the years have there been who were better qualified to handle the affairs of the government than the apes of Borneo.

It is a fact that the apes of Borneo have been known to handle the affairs of the government with a wisdom and foresight that is beyond the reach of most men. They have been known to make decisions that have saved the lives of many people, and they have been known to make decisions that have brought about the peace and stability of a region.

It is a fact that the apes of Borneo have been known to handle the affairs of the government with a wisdom and foresight that is beyond the reach of most men. They have been known to make decisions that have saved the lives of many people, and they have been known to make decisions that have brought about the peace and stability of a region.

What would be the perfect administration of government affairs? We inquired.

Well, our chemistry neighbor replied, it would be the solution of all our social and economic problems. We would then be in Utopia, or the perfect ideal state.

When do we reach there? we inquired.

If all take another 200 years, possibly longer, he said calmly.

Boy Yawns, Catches Burr in Throat

JOHN J. BURR, 18, yawned while standing on the curb in front of his home.

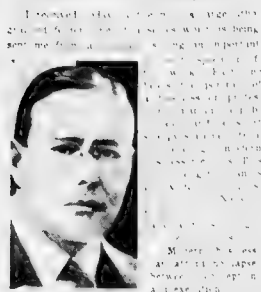

The yawn was just long enough for a small object to fly into his mouth. He caught it in his throat.

The object was a small, dark, cylindrical object. It was a burr, a small, dark, cylindrical object that is used in the construction of bridges.

The burr was found in the mouth of the boy. It was a small, dark, cylindrical object that is used in the construction of bridges.

Business Loses Wisdom With Terrific Speed

Business loses wisdom with terrific speed. It is a fact that is becoming increasingly apparent to all who observe the rapid changes in the business world. The old-fashioned, slow-moving business of the past is being replaced by a new, fast-moving business that is constantly changing and adapting to the needs of the moment. This is a fact that is becoming increasingly apparent to all who observe the rapid changes in the business world. The old-fashioned, slow-moving business of the past is being replaced by a new, fast-moving business that is constantly changing and adapting to the needs of the moment.

Britons Doubt Haste Benefits Business

Britons doubt haste benefits business. The rapid changes in the business world have led to a new, fast-moving business that is constantly changing and adapting to the needs of the moment. This is a fact that is becoming increasingly apparent to all who observe the rapid changes in the business world. The old-fashioned, slow-moving business of the past is being replaced by a new, fast-moving business that is constantly changing and adapting to the needs of the moment.

Whatman, Stansfeld and other business leaders are not sure about the rapid changes in the business world. They believe that the old-fashioned, slow-moving business of the past is being replaced by a new, fast-moving business that is constantly changing and adapting to the needs of the moment. This is a fact that is becoming increasingly apparent to all who observe the rapid changes in the business world.

Case Necessary to Avoid Constant Recriminating

If there is no lapse between conception and execution, the conception runs the risk of being mere pipe dreams and the execution runs the risk of being half-hearted and incomplete. I am afraid that the business world is in a state of constant recriminating. The old-fashioned, slow-moving business of the past is being replaced by a new, fast-moving business that is constantly changing and adapting to the needs of the moment. This is a fact that is becoming increasingly apparent to all who observe the rapid changes in the business world.

There was certainly less work for the Supreme Court to do in the matter of unwarranted business. The old-fashioned, slow-moving business of the past is being replaced by a new, fast-moving business that is constantly changing and adapting to the needs of the moment. This is a fact that is becoming increasingly apparent to all who observe the rapid changes in the business world.

AUSTEN LAKE

Football Roundup; Expert Pick for Saturday's Games

YALE-DARTMOUTH—Halloween, called Oidhche Shamhna in native Irish and Nutcracker Night in some northern sections of New England, begins Sunday at twilight. It is associated with such popular superstitions as Dartmouth's hex in the annual Yale game. By certain charms, said to be the use of buttered wattle-sticks, powdered bat-bones and the forehead of a newborn male child, Dartmouth buried its Dracula during the last two seasons. Still, it failed to drive a stake through its heart or entomb it face backward. Thus the Yale hex rises tomorrow, as potent as ever, a hard swallow for Dartmouth and a vote for Yale.

HARVARD-PRINCETON—AUSTEN LAKE, the two Spendings Presidents of national funds were Woodrow Wilson, Princeton '79 and Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harvard '04. The national debt under Wilson's two administrations increased almost 23 billions and under Roosevelt, to date, has mounted more than 18 billions. Wilson bounced the per capita debt from $12.28 to $221.09 while Roosevelt has jumped it to $131.38 to $264.00. Princeton's entry holds the spending championship to date, but Harvard's entry has three more years to equal the record. Hence a tie between Fair Harvard and Old Nassau.

Oral Surgeon and Gravity

HOLY CROSS-TEMPLE—Founded by a Baptist minister in 1884, Temple offers a cultural curriculum from chair-canning and pie-baking to political science and journalism, amid, as its syllabus states, "a strong religious atmosphere." Its varsity is coached by a 70-year-old watercolor artist and inventor of mechanical trinkets, named Glenn "Pop" Warner, founder of the double wing-back system which bears his name. Holy Cross, founded in 1843 by the Jesuit Fathers and supported without state aid ever since, is coached by a young oral surgeon named Eddie Anderson—a disciple of Knute Rockne, who knows how to take out tonsils or reverse to the weak side. A bonus to Art but a vote for Medicine and Holy Cross.

ROCKNE-ROCKNE—NORTH CAROLINA STATE—Famous Quip and Magic 77

Famous Quip and Magic 77

BOSTON UNIVERSITY—WASHINGTON—When George Washington accepted command of the Colonial army at Cambridge on July 3, 1776, he said, "An army that won't be beat, can't be beat"—a homily which the late Johnny Poe of Princeton paraphrased and which Pat Hanley of B. U., has adopted as his favorite between the halves preachment. The Western Union includes this unhappy gag in its list of canned telegrams to be sent by alumni to coaches and athletes before the big business at 25c a message. A rebuke to Washington for a repetitious carache and a vote for B. U.

MINNESOTA-MINNESOTA—Immediately after Knute Rockne's death on Mar. 31, 1931, a nation-wide drive was started for $500,000 to rear a Memorial field house at South Bend. Subscriptions from the four corners of the country, including newboys' pennies and bankers' checks, trickled in to the tune of $200,000, but the depression slowed the fund down to a drip and collections were abandoned until now. The field house, most laud of its kind in the country, will perpetuate the memory of an immortal teacher, a kindly gentleman and a great organizer. A dollar for Notre Dame and a guess for Minnesota.

OLD MBB-A CORNELL—Eddie Collins, general manager of the Red Sox, scored a touchdown against Cornell as quarterback for Columbia in 1901. He took the kickoff on Columbia's 25-yard line and raced around a hot dog stand bordering the sidelines, took the Morningside horse cars to Times square, shuttled across to the Grand Central and uptown via the Lexington street subway. This put him directly behind the Cornell goal posts for the only points of the game. A snigger for Columbia and a vote for Cornell.

Fake Frailty and Thwart

BROWN-TUFTS—When Arthur Sampson was coaching Tufts in its golden era, his commentator accompanied him to Providence for a pre-game parley with Tuss McLaughry and listened while Sam laid the feebleness of his Tufts team and requested 12-minute quarters. Tuss sympathetically agreed to two twelves but reserved the right to lengthen the quarters between the halves. And well that he did. Because Tufts led 14 to 12 until the last of the game of play when Al Cornsward broke off tackle on a 72-yard run and the winning point for Brown. Tuss, haggard and wan from the ordeal, resolved never to give another Tufts team a break. Hence one for Brown.

NAVY-PENN Two thwarted, frustrated and exasperated teams. One more thwart for Penn and a first major victory for Navy.

Rail Executives N. Y. Exchange Fixes Heartened by Prediction Margin on Shorts

Washington Will Be
More Considerate,
Says Jeffers

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUFSEYER
International News Service Financial Writer

New York Oct. 28.—Railroad executives of the United States are heartened by a more considerate attitude toward the industry by Federal agencies, according to W. M. Jeffers, newly elected president of the Union Pacific Railroad Company.

Mr. Jeffers' statement was made to members of the U. S. C. and had been made in a letter to the U. S. C. last week.

Mr. Jeffers said he had been surprised that the administration in charge of the railroad industry should be so considerate in its attitude toward the industry.

NEW YORK Oct. 28.—Following action by Federal Reserve Board the New York Stock Exchange has revised its margin requirements on short transactions, effective November 15, establishing a minimum of 30 per cent of the market value of the stock, or 50 per cent of the market value of the stock, whichever is greater.

The short bond transactions, a similar minimum of 30 per cent of the market value of the bond, or 50 per cent of the principal amount, or 50 per cent of the market value of the bond, whichever is greater.

At the same time, the Exchange has adjusted margin requirements on member and partner transactions made in the course of a single day to 40 per cent of the market value of all long transactions and 30 per cent of the market value of all short transactions.

Present requirements in full 30 per cent on all long transactions, with 30 per cent on short sales.

The existing margin requirements on customer accounts remain unchanged, which in effect actually works out as approximately 25 per cent margin as against the 40 per cent requirement of the Federal Reserve Board, which must be observed by members.

The higher minimum margin requirement set by the Federal Reserve Board on both long and short transactions except in case of stock for short account selling below 30 a share are initial requirements.

If not maintained accounts involved on such a restricted area where no further transactions can be effected without additional margin.

Requirements are minimums to be maintained and if not maintained accounts must be liquidated.

See the Automobile Show: Buy a New Car

NEW ENGLAND'S annual inspection of the NEW AUTOMOBILE begins tomorrow with the opening of the 1938 Automobile Show in Mechanics' Building, Huntington Avenue, Boston.

The automobile industry is all set for a big year, with the best series of motor cars ever presented to the public.

It ought to be a big year FOR AUTOMOBILES because there is nothing to keep it from being a big year for the people who BUY AND USE them.

We do not look at automobiles any more like pretty pictures in a gallery, or monkeys in a zoo. We look them over, not wishfully, but with the idea of TAKING ONE HOME WITH US.

THE 1938 automobile comes on the scene with more things in its favor than any other model ever made.

The thing most in its favor, of course, is that it is THE BEST CAR EVER BUILT.

But just as important is the constantly increasing opportunity our progressive times put in the hands of AVERAGE PEOPLE for possession and enjoyment of motor cars.

Our people have more money and MORE TIME available for automobiles than any other people in the world.

A few years ago as good an automobile as we have today would have been less useful.

Many of the places Americans sought to visit would have been unreachable, for there were few good roads in ANY weather, none at all in bad weather.

Today, however, you have to drive around a long time to get off a paved road.

And we are learning, too, how to make SAFER as well as MORE use of motor cars. We are getting sensible about driving. We do not laugh at reckless tools who brag about how fast they drive and the narrow squeaks they pull through with whole skins.

AUTOMOBILE progress would not be possible in America any more than in other countries, if we were wasting our resources on war and discord at home and abroad.

We are looking forward to prosperity in the automobile industry and all other phases of American life because we are LOOKING FORWARD TO PEACE.

We would not have time to build motor cars for the pleasure and enjoyment of our people if we could not anticipate a future of security.

Automobile progress is industrial progress and AMERICAN PROGRESS in the truest sense of the phrase, because it is the best exemplification we have of President Roosevelt's conception of a nation actively engaging in the SEARCH FOR PEACE.

GO to the Boston Automobile Show. Take your family. See the new, beautiful and BEST motor cars yet produced. AND TAKE ONE HOME WITH YOU.

It will be an investment in happiness for yourself and prosperity for the nation.

Clerks Defend the Towns

THE Massachusetts Town Clerks' Association, convening in Boston, voted against proposals for the re-registration of all voters in the Commonwealth.

The clerks said the immunity of residents of a small community precluded practically all possibility of illegal voting.

That is undoubtedly true, certainly the widespread padding of the lists that has been revealed in Boston could not occur in a town with a population of three or four thousand.

Nevertheless, the charge has been made many times in the past and probably will continue to be made that politicians hold sway in some of the smallest municipalities in much the same manner as their more powerful brethren do in large cities.

For years it has been the custom of Democrats to accuse George Revere, a Republican, of being a crooked politician to accuse Democrats of the same.

The only fair and practical thing to do is to re-enroll every person in Massachusetts eligible to cast a vote. Communities that are free from corruption have nothing to fear, and communities where crooked politicians now operate have everything to gain.

Senator Holmes' re-registration proposal was a direct approach to a troublesome problem; it ought to be reconsidered by the 1938 Legislature.

James Roosevelt Faces Facts

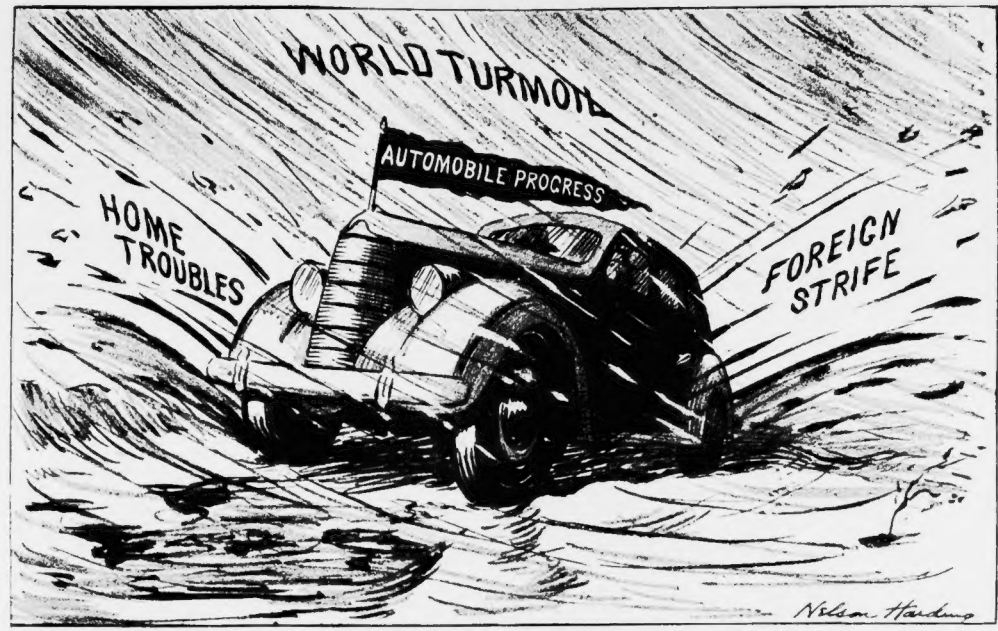

JAMES ROOSEVELT, eldest son of the President, speaking in Boston, faced facts and talked common sense.

"It just didn't work," he said, referring to the post war attempt to find the world's naval armaments. "The hopes of those who seek peace only through disarmament have been broken by the stubborn truths of reality. All attempts to find mechanical formulas for peace have failed.

"Only the strong are still respected. Today, fortunately, we are strong and getting stronger."

He did not have to try to imagination to know that this is the right view. The present situation in China, a huge nation which permitted herself to become weak, affords us a powerful illustration of the danger of being unprepared.

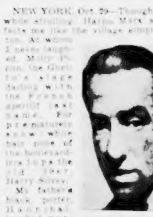

Our stronger Navy as an effective first line of defense is our surest guarantee of peace, now and in the future.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Thoughts were drifting, Harry Marx of the New York Times, when he wrote the column on the new car show.

Now that there is a new car show in New York, it is a good idea to look at the new car show in New York. It is a good idea to look at the new car show in New York.

I have a letter from a reader, a man who is a fan of the New York Times. He says that he has been reading the New York Times for many years.

The most potent part of the New York Times is the New York Times. It is a good idea to look at the New York Times.

The New York Times is a good idea to look at the New York Times. It is a good idea to look at the New York Times.

The New York Times is a good idea to look at the New York Times. It is a good idea to look at the New York Times.

March of Events

By Benjamin DeCasseres

While the two major wars at present are in China and Spain, there is a silent international conflict going on for the possession of Africa.

England and Italy are quietly engaged in an arms race in Africa and Egypt. Now France seeks to find time available for her possession in Africa.

Most wars are for LAND and the little people who live off of the land and generally have the least to say. This is true in Africa.

In 1973 in Belgium, Italy Luigi Galvani suspended some frogs by hooks from an iron ceiling. The frogs were decorated, placed in the presence of their king, and then they were killed.

It is a big jump from Luigi Galvani to Lord Rutherford, but the most famous physicist of the age, who had the other day, he had found not only enough common sense to suspend some frogs by hooks from a round trip of the Queen Mary but that he was at last on the trail of the great secret—how to transmute one element into another—there being only one fundamental force.

Spinoza announced the latter truth when he formulated his doctrine of one eternal substance, of which everything is a manifestation.

Lord Rutherford, for all that, the greatest discoverer of the age, was not a categorical master of the imagination and the concept of the imagination.

Science is a long time catching up with the great discoveries. It is a long time catching up with the great discoveries.

The Lord is good; a stronghold in the day of trouble, and He knoweth them that trust in Him.—Nahum 1, 7.
